

Earth Day

On Friday 21st April Parkdale participated in Earth Day, a global event celebrated by more than 1 billion people in many countries around the world. Earth Day was launched to teach environmentalism - preserving the air and water that we need to survive and protecting animals, plants and humans in different habitats around the world.

In the afternoon the school fell silent as electrical devices and lights were turned off for 1 hour. Many classes focused on pledging to make a change to help the environment.

Everyone wore an item of blue clothing as the Eco team decided to ask everyone to donate to Islamic Relief's 'Water for Life', campaign.

Different year groups undertook a range of environmental themed activities, including, paper chain pledges to use water sensibly, making dream-catchers with water saving pledges to share at home and environmental infographic posters.

It was such a different experience for the children as the school was completely quiet for 1 hour, allowing time for the children to really think about the Sustainable Development topic.
